1988 NCAA DIVISION II CHAMPIONS

Overview

The Lady Pirates captured Hampton University's only basketball national title of any kind in the 1987-88 season. Some considered the 1988 national championship team the best in the history of the Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association (CIAA), and some even though of the Lady Pirates as the best team in the history of Division II women's basketball.

Hampton went an unprecedented 63-3 in the 1986-87 and 1987-88 seasons, including back-to-back undefeated campaigns in the CIAA. In their title run, the Lady Pirates suffered just one loss: 80-73 to Virginia Union in the championship game of the CIAA tournament.

Over those two seasons, the Lady Pirates recorded winning streaks of 30 and 27 games, and dethroned perennial national power North Dakota State during their title run. The next night, Hampton upset heavily-favored West Texas State University (now West Texas A&M) 65-48 to hoist its first national championship trophy.

Jackie Dolberry, Hampton's all-time leading scorer, was a three-time CIAA Player of the Year and 1988 Kodak All-American. Dolberry was named Most Valuable Player of the 1988 NCAA tournament, and she was supported by two other All-Americans: Venise Frazer and Jackie McWilliams.

Coach James Sweat, recognizing the talent on his team, explored the possibility of a run-and-gun offense mixed with an attacking defense to suit the team's overall speed and athleticism. It worked and shocked the entire northwest, as they were unaware of the type of speed on the floor in the east coast, along with excellent outside shooting and defense.

Take the Worn Path

In order to even get to the national title game, the Lady Pirates had to pull off the unthinkable – knock off North Dakota State in their home arena, the Bison Sports Arena in Fargo. The Bison were seen as a superior team and had the advantage of a sellout crown of over 7,000 on its side.

But the Lady Pirates had other ideas, using their superior speed and defensive pressure to force the Bison into 20 turnovers. North Dakota State used its home-court advantage, though, making several runs to keep the game close. The Bison used Hampton's defensive aggression to record an impressive advantage at the free-throw line.

In the end, Hampton's 72-63 win proved to be one of the biggest in the program's history. With the shocking outcome, Hampton was given a standing ovation for their performance against the No. 1-ranked Bison.

The Eyes of Texas

After the shocking win over North Dakota State the night before in the Final Four, Hampton had to keep the momentum going against West Texas State in the title game. The Lady Pirates did much of what they did against the Bison, with solid outside shooting and relentless defense. That combination allowed Hampton to hold the lead for much of the contest.

West Texas tried to force its size on the Lady Pirates, but Hampton's speed negated that advantage. Paula McDole's ball-handling and the defense of Karen Drewry made Hampton's championship season a reality in a game where West Texas was heavily favored.

Along with Dolberry being named tournament MVP, Frazer and Drewry were also named to the All-Tournament team.
